Hokkaido is the top wine grape producing area in Japan.
 Most grapes that are produced in the Honshu area of Japan are consumed as fresh fruit. Because of its cool climate and the low frequency of both typhoons and prolonged rain, Hokkaido is ideal for cultivating European wine grapes and has become the No.1 producing area in Japan. The varieties of wine produced in Hokkaido range from the reasonably priced to the more exclusive.

Production share of wine grapes by prefectures in 2006 (Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries)

Prefecture	Share (%)
Hokkaido	33%
Yamagata	13%
Nagano	18%
Others	15%
Yamanashi	10%
Hyogo	11%
